MULTIPILO BY STUDIO FINEMATERIA

The Multiplo collection celebrates concrete for outdoor furnishings, using the Pulkra technique and keeping the pieces simple and modular to create a practical, convenient system. The items have certain components in common and share some unique features that showcase the surprising plasticity of concrete. The forms are designed to integrate with the flow of nature. Like natural materials, concrete is porous: it absorbs and releases, changing over the course of time. The Multiplo collection is highly versatile, suitable for the contract market and private homes. It can furnish an outdoor space on its own, or accessorize and complete an interior.

DOME BY PIO & TITO TOSO

Dome is a collection that boldly proclaims the singular appeal and beauty of concrete. The language of Dome is clear and simple, a language we might call "architectural" for how it exalts the material's beauty through pure volumes. Dome's origins lie in the history and culture of concrete: an ancient story intimately bound to the dawn of architecture, to the fascinating, timeless structures of vaults and domes. This cultural and artistic bond is the foundation of Dome and becomes its most treasured value. The collection is a series of stunning bathroom and bath-related furnishings, whose very presence elevates our perception of the space they inhabit.

MANIFESTO BY STORMO STUDIO

Everything Stormo Studio creates is informed by the designers' shared background in architecture. Elena Calabro and Michael Carton investigate the intrinsic relationship between space and material and seek physicality in emotions, letting the form resulting from this process be naturally meaningful and evocative. Manifesto is inspired by the potential the pair saw in concrete and the challenge of seeing how far they could take it. The collection echoes the architectural theories of Metabolism, while incorporating some of the studio's recurring themes such as the aesthetics of the void and Oriental sizes and configurations, appear to rest on massive supports but in truth feature a delicate balance. A technical challenge, met by none other than Pulkra.

ACRON

Concrete is a familiar material, known and used for centuries, yet more versatile and eclectic than we may realize. Through intensive research, Pulkra has crafted a CFRC composite that's as strong as it is lightweight: its name is ACRON®. Enriched with polymers and fibers and pigmented using a fine marble sand, ACRON® is exceptionally resistant, flexible, and attractive, allowing for infinite new ideas. With ACRON®, Pulkra has elevated concrete to its most sincere and beautiful form.

PULKRA

The Italian brand Pulkra is a love affair with concrete. Talented designers, with a subversive approach, craft innovative materials into minimalist yet compellingly detailed lines. Informed by futuristic aesthetics, each collection builds a layered universe rich with cross-references and unexpected details. Every Pulkra product is tagged with a code that identifies the design in descending order. Pulkra was conceived as a way to connect art, architecture, and manufacturing with the ultimate goal of letting designers explore to their heart's content one of the most ancient materials in history.
